CROSS-CULTURAL AND CHANGE MANAGEMENT IN POST-MERGER INTEGRATION
September 9-13, 2013

Mergers and acquisitions and complex reorganizations across borders play a key role in multinational companies' growth and globalization strategies. These situations are particularly challenging when the high expectations of stakeholders to deliver the expected strategic and financial results are combined with the intense complexity of change management, cross-cultural, and leadership aspects in the post-merger integration process. This unique executive seminar is designed for business leaders, managers, and members of M&A teams who are responsible for overseeing or implementing PMI projects and want to deliver the expected results. In this five-day program, participants strengthen their competencies and skills to more effectively manage the human element of the PMI process, especially in complex business environments and cross-cultural settings.

Enrollment Fee: US $6,300

“Class size was optimal. Diverse industry and nationality backgrounds enrich the overall experience.”

Operations Manager, ESRI Global, United Arab Emirates

LEADERSHIP AS A DAILY CHALLENGE: AN INTEGRATED APPROACH

October 6-11, 2013

Leadership development is an inherently personal process — different managers and executives can be equally effective while handling their responsibilities in different ways. What is critical, though, is the development of a solid foundation of core skills to effectively manage dynamic organizational and interpersonal challenges in the daily work. This program integrates four innovative leadership concepts:

- Star Performers: a framework for creating star performers, and the roles of leadership and followership
- Change Management: leaders as successful change agents in complex organizational environments
- Mastering Informal Networks: utilizing informal networks beyond hierarchy to increase overall impact in the organization
- Negotiating and Managing Conflict: Effectively managing conflict across functionally diverse teams

Enrollment Fee: US $6,700

This program integrates two key leadership approaches that effectively address these challenges. Cross-cultural management provides applied tools for successfully bridging both organizational and national cultural gaps. Change management covers targeted concepts for improved understanding of the complex dynamics of corporate culture in today's changing business environment. Together, these approaches provide managers with integrated tools and proven techniques for improving their effectiveness in leading diversified teams and achieving organizational objectives in an increasingly globalized marketplace.
